Blueeye Productions specializes in photography, documentary projects and digital interviews.

Photography:

Blueeye shoots on location and focuses on people, places, events and moments. We work with you to identify the right mood and environment for an image. We also work with you to identify the elements of an event, from weddings to galas to birthday parties. We look for the images that epitomize the moment – as well as moments that surprise and reveal something new.

Family Histories:

Blueeye creates presentations of family histories, using existing family photos, new digital interviews of family members, new digital photographs and video clips. We work with you to identify the scope, voices and vision of what you want to capture, and create a chronology from the information. It's a chance to record your stories in your voice – as well as the voices and stories of aging relatives whose experiences could be lost forever. Documenting them can enrich your family's past and offer insights into what makes your family unique.

Business Profiles:

Blueeye produces profiles of company executives and shows the business in action through still images and digital interviews. It's an opportunity to humanize management and bring business products to life.

Moving Images:

Presentation of events, including galas and parties, that show moments and personalities; emphasis on portraits and actions.

Project Production Techniques:

Presentations include still images, digital interviews and video clips produced in slide shows and outputted on DVDs or web galleries.

Linda Hosek, an award-winning photographer, writer and national television journalist, launched Blueeye Productions to offer creative services ranging from individual images to multimedia presentations of family histories.
